Objectives

- ▶ To present advocacy issues to policy makers
 - ▶ To personalize the issues for the listener by telling personal anecdotes that illustrate the advocacy point being made.
 - ▶ Experiencing AIDS WATCH 2015: Issues

Advocacy is.....

Some examples of advocacy campaigns

Disabilities Act

The Heart of Change

People change what they do less because they are given analysis that shifts their thinking (and more) because they are shown a truth that influences their feelings.

The Handicap Parking Bill

the analysis

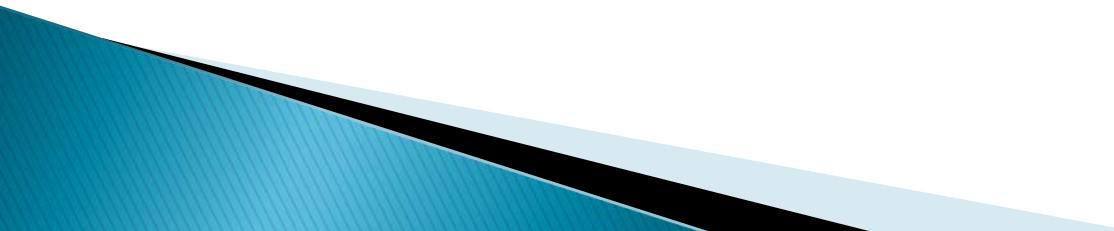

- ▶ Approximately 200,000 people in NJ meet the definition of “aged, blind or disabled”
- ▶ People with disabilities shop, work and vote
- ▶ People without disabilities take these activities for granted
- ▶ People with disabilities are often excluded from these activities because accessible parking spaces are being used by persons who no longer required their use or park there illegally.

Take a Stand – Activity

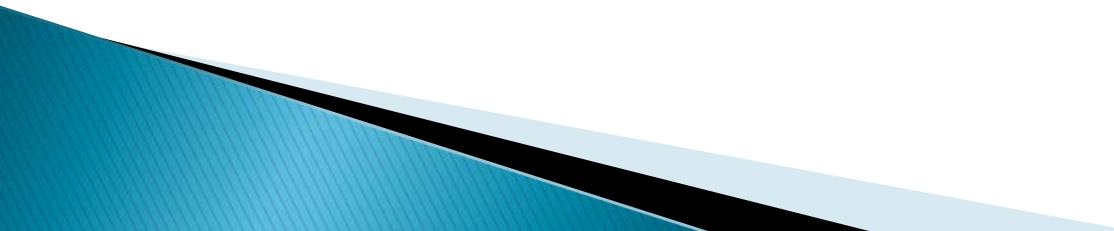

Five Parts of a Classical Argument

1. The introduction
 2. The narration
 3. The confirmation
 4. The refutation & concession
 5. The summation

The Introduction

- ▶ Warms up the audience.
 - ▶ Establishes good will and rapport with readers.
 - ▶ Announces general theme or position of argument.

The Narration

- ▶ Summarizes relevant background material
 - ▶ Provides any information audience needs to know about the environment and circumstances that produce the argument
 - ▶ Sets up the stakes – what's at risk in this question.

The Confirmation

- ▶ Lays out in a logical order (usually strongest to weakest or most obvious to most subtle) the claims that support your position, providing evidence for each claim.

The Refutation and Concession

- ▶ Looks at opposing viewpoints to the writer's claims.
 - ▶ Anticipates objections from the audience.
 - ▶ Allows as much of the opposing viewpoints as possible without weakening the position.

Summation

- ▶ Provides a strong conclusion.
 - ▶ Amplifies the force of the argument
 - ▶ Shows readers that this solution is the best at meeting the circumstances.

What does your audience value?

In other words,
what will they hear?

Money?

Efficiency?

People?
